

CRUSHED A WOMAN'S SKULL.

Lizzie Farrell the Victim of an Unknown Assassin.

Mysterious Murderous Assault on a Red Bank Street.

REDA BANK, N. J., April 28.—A murder was attempted here last night. The victim is Lizzie Farrell, an Irish girl who has been in this country about fifteen years. She is a short, pleasant-looking young woman about twenty-eight years old.

For about four years Lizzie has been employed as a domestic by Millard P. Corwell, of Broad street. Mrs. Corwell has been away from home for several weeks for her health. During this period the young woman has been spending her evenings at John McNeill's, in West End Bank.

She left Mr. Corwell's house as usual last night to go to McNeill's. She was accompanied by a friend, Mary, who lives at 100 Broad street. Mrs. Corwell's carriage factory on Maple avenue by Mary Leydon, a domestic in the family of James Cooper, Jr.

This was a little after 9 o'clock. The girls separated at the corner of Maple avenue and Monmouth street. Mary went to Cooper's and Lizzie to McNeill's.

Lizzie said: "Mary, I am afraid to go alone alone, there are a lot of tramps around." Mary replied, laughing: "Oh, I guess they won't disturb you."

At 9:15 o'clock the bleeding and unconscious form of Lizzie Farrell was found by William H. Frey in front of his house, on Bridge avenue.

Physicians were sent for and the young woman was conveyed to Agram Deckers' house on the same street. By her side they found an iron-switch rod, about 18 inches long and 1 1/2 inches thick, with which the murderous blows are thought to have been inflicted. This was taken possession of by the police.

The girl's head was fearfully crushed in. There were two different gashes and her brain was exposed.

One blow had been struck on the back of the head and the other on the right side. Her raven-black curly hair was saturated with blood.

The woman did not regain consciousness, and this morning early she was taken to the Long Branch Hospital. The physicians do not think she will live.

The police hunted all night long for the assassin, but their labors were fruitless. The only clue the police have is the iron rod, which was probably taken from the railroad, less than one hundred yards away.

Cyrillus Bennett, who lives near Frey's, says he heard a woman scream about the time Miss Farrell was assaulted, and looking out of the window, saw a man run down the street towards the railroad track.

Some people are of the opinion that the deed was the work of a crank. Miss Annie Van Winkle, a school teacher on Oakland street, was struck from behind several nights ago near her home and quite seriously hurt. The ruffian who attacked her was never discovered.

Prosecutor Ives, who lives here and the police will do their utmost to apprehend Miss Farrell's assailant.

It is thought that the motive for the assault was robbery. Miss Farrell had $55 wrapped up in a paper, which was tucked in her bosom. The physicians who examined her found the paper, but the money was missing.

THE BARBER HAS SMALL-POX.

Many Hoboken People Have Been Exposed, and a Scare Resulted.

There is consternation today among people who have patronized the barber shop of John Decker, at 73 Washington street, and number, in Hoboken, as well as among the neighbors of the place in the tenement-house in the ground floor of which his shop was located.

It was discovered last evening that Decker was suffering from violent small-pox, and he was promptly removed to the pest-house at Snake Hill. He had been a work in his shop up to a few hours yesterday afternoon.

With his wife and three children Decker lived on the floor over his barber shop. Two other families lived on the floor above.

It is impossible to estimate the number of people who have been exposed to contagion by coming in contact with Decker. There must have been a great many, however, and it is feared that many cases of the disease will develop.

The health officers have taken all the precautions possible to prevent the spread of the disease. All the people in the house and those immediately adjoining have been vaccinated and potentiated stations to prevent any one from entering or leaving the premises. The house has been fumigated.

Decker is seriously ill and may not recover, it is said.

TWO ARKANSAS TRAGEDIES.

One a Duel with Rifles, the Other Assassination.

MONMOUTH, Ark., April 28.—Dr. G. H. Horn, of Van Horn, was shot and killed on Tuesday by William Halley. The Horns and Halleys have had several shooting scrapes and two or three men have been killed. Tuesday Dr. Horn and William Halley accidentally met and fought a duel to the death. Halley was killed and Horn was shot and killed.

Horn was shot in the back of the head and fell from his horse. Halley gave himself up, claiming self-defense.

GRAND JURY, April 28.—Farmer Wetherby, of Van Horn, was shot and killed on Tuesday by William Halley. The Halley party and the cause of the deed are unknown.

WALKING DELEGATE ARRESTED.

Accused of Coercing a Boss Into Discharging a Workman.

JAMES GILSON, of 334 West Fifth street, walking delegate of Union No. 2412, of the Building Contractors of New York, E. L. was taken to the Tombs court by Detective English, of the court squad, charged with coercion.

The complaint was made by Gottlieb Wember, a slate roofer of 560 Atlantic avenue, Brooklyn.

On April 11 Wember had in his employ at seventy-seventh street and Avenue A George F. Wember, a roofer, who was it appears to the union. Wember claims that Gilson threatened to strike the job and order a boycott if Wember was not discharged, and that to rule the contract he was compelled to let the workman go.

Gilson denied the charge and was held for examination.

LABOR'S HARMONY CONCLAVE.

150,000 Union Men to Be Represented at To-Night's Meeting.

Scheme for the Formation of a New, Powerful Central Body.

Delegates from three hundred labor unions and organizations will meet tonight in the grand hall for the purpose of endeavoring to settle the differences that have existed among them for several years.

Leaders in the various organizations have been preparing for the event on a long time, and it is confidently expected by them that the results desired will be attained through the formation of a new central labor body.

During the past two weeks meetings have been held among the various divisions and subdivisions of the central labor union, the American Federation of Labor and the central labor federation, the three great central bodies of this city, and three delegates from each subordinate union have been appointed to attend the conference.

Delegates have been instructed to exert their utmost power to effect the consolidation of all past differences, and at the same time to secure the adoption of such measures as would in the future tend to consolidate all the unions under one great central body, whose scope and powers in speaking affecting their interests would be unlimited.

Who will preside over the conference is not yet known. It was said this morning that the honor would fall probably to the central labor union, a subordinate of thirty-five million members.

There is every indication that the proceedings will move along smoothly, and that the result will be the formation of a new executive organization for the government of the various unions interested in the undertaking.

It is to be expected that the conference will represent a membership of more than 150,000 men.

THREE CHILDREN FATALLY HURT

Terrible Work of a Runaway Horse in a Brazil (Ind.) Street.

BRAZIL, Ind., April 28.—Last evening a horse belonging to J. M. Halstead, proprietor of the Eagle Planing Mills, and attached to a one-horse wagon, heavily loaded with lumber, took fright at a passing engine near the vandals railroad and dashed down the street into a group of children.

The wheels of the heavy wagon passed over three of J. A. Weller's children, aged six, nine and eleven years, breaking their legs and arms and internally injuring them to such an extent that recovery is impossible. Roy Wadon, aged nine, and another little boy were also badly mangled.

FOSSILS FOR CENTRAL PARK.

Rare Skeletons Found in New Mexico by Agents of the Museum.

Dr. J. L. Wortman and Prof. A. Peterson, of the American Museum of Natural History, in central park, have just concluded a successful and arduous search for fossils in San Juan County, N. M. They have found over five hundred specimens.

Some of them are very valuable. Among others is a complete skull, the only one ever found of the primitive elephant, Dr. Wortman has complete jaws and skulls, and in many instances most of the bones of entire skeletons. The specimens that have been found fill a box in the geological cabinet that has not been represented elsewhere in the world.

KILLING OFF HORSE-THIEVES.

Two Desperadoes Shot to Death at Wyoming.

CHICAGO, April 28.—From Cheyenne, Wyo., information has been received of the killing of two desperate horse-thieves, two desperadoes and Jack Barrett, at Jackson Hole, in the extreme northwestern portion of the state.

The men were killed by five deputy sheriffs headed by J. H. Holland, of Union county, and fifty horsemen from the Big Horn country in Montana were found in their tracks.

The journey to the horse-thieves' camp, which is fifty miles from any settlement, was made on horse-back, and the evening of the third day the officers came within sight of it. While in hiding they saw six desperadoes, and among them as well as their cattle the house was surrounded by the officers.

At daylight the cabin door opened and two desperadoes came out and toward the stable. He was told to surrender, and he replied by emptying his six-shooter at his would-be captors. They returned the fire, and Spencer hit, killed with bullets.

The third desperado, named Billard, rode with him. As he was known to be one of the best shots in the country the desperadoes intrenched themselves behind a ridge.

When two dozen shots had been fired Barrett was given out and he fell toward the stable, and a bullet through him settled the career of one of the most notorious horse-thieves in the northwestern portion of the state.

Four other horse-thieves are under arrest in the same country, the result of a crusade inaugurated six months ago.

HANGED, BUT STILL ALIVE.

A Mississippi Wife Murderer Survives His Execution.

NEW ORLEANS, April 28.—A Providence (Miss.) special says: Coleman Blackburn stands without a rival for the strength of his neck. On the 20th he was hanged for wife murder at Fayette, and is reported today to be walking around his room and conversing with friends.

After hanging for thirty-six minutes and being pronounced dead by three of the local physicians, his remains were turned over to relatives for interment. They reside in Franklin county, a distance of thirty-five miles overland.

While en route to the family burying-ground a section on the heels of the coffin was heard. The top of the coffin was removed, and the supposed corpse was found to be still alive.

A local physician was at once summoned, and after treatment the patient was pronounced out of danger. He was languid but well, and was taken up fully six feet with a three-foot drop.

STEAMSHIP FLORIDA SUNK.

She Was Old and Leaky, and Was Being Towed to New York.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., April 26.—It is believed that no effort will be made to raise the steamship Florida, which sank off Longport yesterday. The ship had nothing on board.

The Florida had been bought by New York patterns for $200,000 and was being towed to that port to be fitted up for an excursion boat. She was leaking badly when she left Baltimore, and it was found that it was useless to try to save her.

AN OLD SOLDIER'S SUFFERINGS.

HIS FATHERS WHILE IN THE ARMY AND SINCE THE WAR.

Victory at Last After Years of Misery While Fighting Disease—John Bennett's Life History and His Remarks on the Result of the Great Epidemic of the War.

There is a story of the war more graphic or more interesting than that of John Bennett, who fought in the second New York Cavalry, who has the most complete knowledge of the war that is not known by a single man in the city. He is the only man who has seen the great epidemic of the war, and he is the only man who has seen the result of the great epidemic of the war.

JOHN BENNETT.

While in the army I contracted chronic disease and what disease, I do not know. It is a very painful disease. Besides I have been a soldier for many years, and I have seen many different diseases, but I have never seen one so painful as this. It is a disease that is not known by a single man in the city. It is a disease that is not known by a single man in the city.

After two months' treatment I feel it my duty to report to the world the result of my sufferings. I feel it my duty to report to the world the result of my sufferings. I feel it my duty to report to the world the result of my sufferings.

CONTRACTOR BEATER HELD.

The Four Men Hurt by Him Unable to Appear in Court.

Peter Beater, of 109 Cedar street, the contractor who inadvertently inflicted serious injuries on four men while removing a telegraph pole from the roof of 31 Warren street yesterday, was held in the Tombs court this morning.

The injured men are Charles A. Bauer, of 510 West One Hundred and Seventeenth street, Brooklyn; Kurt Rothland, of 1844 Lexington avenue, and Emil Sack, of 300 Madison street. They were unable to appear in court.

By removing the pole part of a chimney was knocked down, and the bricks fell in a shower through a skylight upon the heads of the men mentioned, who were employed in a telegraph establishment on the top floor of 31.

DEATH OF MARY MOLONEY.

Her Husband Was Clerk to the Board of Aldermen.

MARY AGNES MOLONEY, devoted wife of William H. Moloney, who became notorious in connection with the Board of Aldermen, died at her home, 430 Lexington avenue, last night.

"The blow is killing the innocent," Moloney used to say in the days when he was an ex-patriated New Yorker in Montreal, whether he tried to avoid exposing the crookedness of his friends, the Aldermen.

Mrs. Moloney was sick abed when the investigation of the manner of granting the Broadway Railway franchise was begun. When she learned that a subpoena to appear as a witness before the committee would be served upon her, she insisted on being removed to Montreal to avoid appearing as a witness.

There pneumonia set in. Her life was saved, but her health was undermined, and she had been slowly failing ever since. The death came yesterday afternoon.

She was the daughter of John Furlong, one of the oldest and best known residents of the Fourth Ward, and a strikingly beautiful woman. She leaves eight children. She was forty-five years old.

The funeral will take place to-morrow morning from St. Agnes's Roman Catholic Church in East Forty-third street. The interment will be in Calvary cemetery.
